Creating Healthy Spaces: Rising up the Corporate Agenda

CBRE, in partnership with Herman Miller and the International Well Building Institute (IWBI), will host an event around the rising importance of wellness in the workplace. The event will be a good opportunity to share knowledge and learn from the creator of the WELL system as well as practitioners that are driving the standard.

Occupiers have an opportunity to improve the health of their people by improving the way buildings are designed and operated. Through initiatives such as the WELL Building Standard, value can be added to real estate assets, human health can be enhanced, general building operations can be improved, and the productivity agenda can be enhanced. The WELL Building Standard is the first market driven initiative which focuses exclusively on the health and wellness of people in buildings. WELL closes the gap between performance and compliance by evaluating and measuring the conditions in a building that impact human health.

As facility managers it is important to appreciate how the market is embracing WELL working environments and how to operate them in order to ensure occupiers continue

SPEAKERS:

Mr. Edward Peters Senior Director, CBRE Global Workplace Solutions

Mr. Edward Peters is the Global Workplace Solutions lead for Hong Kong, Taiwan and Macau. He was appointed into this role in December 2015.
